MARKET REVIEW

In April, renewed inflation concerns and higher energy prices triggered a reassessment of the policy outlook, driving global sovereign yields modestly higher. Fixed income sectors posted positive excess returns as credit spreads tightened despite ongoing geopolitical uncertainty.

US economic data indicated mixed consumer sentiment and business conditions. Consumer confidence improved even as broader sentiment weakened, while price pressures edged higher and retail sales advanced despite uneven income trends. Growth remained subdued in the first quarter as output edged higher while inflation increased amid rising energy costs. Headline price measures strengthened across the region, and German inflation rose even as business climate indicators softened.

Global credit markets outperformed duration-equivalent government bonds over the month as spreads tightened. The financials, industrials, and utilities sectors outperformed relative to duration-equivalent government bonds. Broadly, municipal bonds outperformed duration-equivalent Treasuries. Within the securitized sectors, asset-backed securities, agency mortgage-backed securities, and commercial mortgage-backed securities all outperformed duration-equivalent government bonds.

FUND PERFORMANCE AND ATTRIBUTION

The portfolio generated a positive total return during the month and outperformed the Bloomberg Global Aggregate hedged to NZD index.

The portfolio's corporate credit positioning had a positive impact on performance overall. At the broad sector level, both high yield credit and US investment grade corporates outperformed duration-equivalent government bonds. An underweight to US investment grade corporates had a negative impact on relative performance, while an allocation to US high yield credit benefitted relative returns. Positioning within non-US developed investment grade corporates and exposure to non-US developed high yield were also additive.

An allocation to emerging market high yield corporates, comprised of utility issuers, invested in the clean water and sanitation theme, and industrial issuers, invested in the digital divide theme, had a slight positive impact on relative results.

An overweight to agency mortgage back securities (MBS) in support of the affordable housing theme had a slightly positive impact on relative performance.

An allocation to taxable municipals, primarily allotted to education & training and health themes, had a modestly positive effect on relative results.

Overall duration and yield curve positioning had a neutral impact on performance.

FUND POSITIONING AND OUTLOOK*

Growth remains supported by fiscal tailwinds, deregulation, and continued AI driven investment, but the backdrop has become more fragile. Elevated energy prices and geopolitical uncertainty are tightening financial conditions, increasing the risk that growth slows as the year progresses. Inflation progress has been uneven, with progress on shelter prices offset by recent upside risks tied to higher energy costs, tariffs, and emerging second round effects. The Fed remains on hold as policy uncertainty intensifies.

Against this backdrop, we see attractive upside potential in selectively capitalizing on credit market dislocations as they emerge. At the same time, we are actively monitoring key risks to our outlook and remain prepared to adjust your portfolio exposures should conditions warrant.

In terms of positioning, the portfolio remains underweight in investment-grade credit, instead favoring opportunities in select out-of-benchmark sectors. These include high-quality securitized credit —supported by tight housing supply and resilient consumer fundamentals—and select emerging markets where valuations appear compelling and fundamentals are improving.

From a sector perspective, the portfolio maintains an off-benchmark allocation to select taxable municipals, emphasizing healthcare and education issuers. The portfolio holds select below investment-grade corporates and bank loan issuers that in our view carry attractive credit spreads.

The portfolio maintains an overweight to agency MBS issuers with a focus on supporting housing affordability for low-income borrowers. We continue to hold select single-asset single borrower CMBS backed by LEED certified buildings.

The portfolio maintains exposure to labelled use-of-proceeds government and agency bonds intended to fund green, social, and sustainability related projects.

INDEPENDENT IMPACT VERIFICATION

An early mover in public-market impact investing, Wellington launched its first impact strategy in 2015 and joined the Global Impact Investing Network (GIIN) a year later. Wellington has continuously evolved to stay aligned with current best practices ever since. Wellington's commitment to ongoing improvement led the firm to independently verify that the impact investing processes of its Global Impact Equity and Global Impact Bond strategies (with combined assets under management of US$3.8 billion as at 31 December 2024) align with industry standards.

BlueMark, the leading provider of independent impact verification and intelligence for the sustainable and impact investing market, verified Wellington's practices. BlueMark assessed Wellington's practices against the GIIN's impact principles – a commonly recognized standard for impact investors, who aim to deliver market-rate financial returns alongside measurable social and environmental impact.

Wellington are thrilled to share its strong results, having earned an “advanced” or “high” rating in eight out of nine practice areas. Specifically, BlueMark:

- Highlighted a granular, bottom-up, integrated approach to impact diligence.
- Acknowledged strong collaboration among various teams across the firm, who work with impact portfolio managers to ensure that each underlying holding meets the respective fund's impact criteria.
- Assessed impact monitoring as “advanced,” citing Wellington's annual reporting of impact KPIs and an internal feedback loop that ensures insights from impact data analysis can help influence research and engagement priorities for Wellington's impact funds.

While proud of these achievements and BlueMark verification, Wellington also recognizes the importance of continued diligence and improvement. For example, Wellington plans to focus on the better sharing of lessons learned between the impact investing teams.

Looking forward to the next decade of impact investing, Wellington remains committed to advancing its impact measurement and management practice. Aligning with industry standards and best practices can not only help Wellington attract capital to public-market impact investing and deliver competitive outcomes for clients, but can help ensure that the firm is making a meaningful, quantifiable difference for society and the environment.
