

SUMMARY OF INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE

The Devon Global Impact Bond Fund is actively managed and seeks to understand the world's social and environmental problems and to identify and invest primarily in debt issued by companies and organisations that we believe are addressing these needs in a differentiated way through their core products, services and projects. Through the Fund's investments, we seek to improve access to, and the quality of, basic life essentials, reduce inequality and mitigate the effects of climate change. The Fund seeks to deliver long term total returns in excess of the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Index (hedged to NZD).

MARKET REVIEW

In October, volatility spiked early in the month as trade tensions escalated. Fiscal uncertainty from the US government shut-down weighed on sentiment, while credit spreads widened unevenly across sectors.

Most global sovereign yields fell in October. US Treasury yields fell across the curve on safe-haven demand amid regional bank fraud disclosures and government shutdown concerns, with softer consumer sentiment adding pressure. In Europe, UK gilt yields dropped sharply after inflation undershot expectations and signs of fiscal discipline emerged ahead of the November budget. Bund yields declined on weak industrial output, while improved political stability in France supported risk appetite.

Global credit markets underperformed duration-equivalent government bonds over the month as spreads widened. The financials and industrials sectors underperformed relative to duration-equivalent government bonds while utilities outperformed. Broadly, municipal bonds outperformed duration-equivalent Treasuries. Within the securitized sectors, agency mortgage-backed securities and commercial mortgage-backed securities outperformed duration-equivalent government bonds while asset-backed securities underperformed.

FUND PERFORMANCE AND ATTRIBUTION

The portfolio generated a positive total return during the month and outperformed the Bloomberg Global Aggregate hedged to NZD index.

The portfolio's corporate credit positioning had a positive impact on performance overall. At the broad sector level, both high yield credit and US investment grade corporates underperformed duration-equivalent government bonds. An underweight to US investment grade corporates, particularly industrials, benefited relative performance. An allocation to US and developed non-US high yield credit had a positive impact on results. An allocation to emerging market high yield corporates, mainly utilities and industrial issuers invested in the digital divide and clean water and sanitation themes, had a neutral impact on relative results.

An overweight to agency mortgage back securities (MBS) in support of the affordable housing theme was modestly beneficial for performance as spreads moved tighter as volatility continued to decline.

An allocation to taxable municipals, primarily allotted to education & training and health themes, had a positive impact on relative results.

Overall duration and yield curve positioning had a neutral impact on performance.

FUND POSITIONING AND OUTLOOK*

While uncertainty around tariffs persists, fiscal stimulus, ongoing deregulation efforts, and Fed policy easing could support growth. However, the timing and magnitude of these effects remain uncertain, and political volatility continues to complicate the outlook. Inflation has moderated but is expected to reaccelerate due to renewed tariff pressures and persistent labor market constraints.

Against this backdrop, we believe that there is opportunity in active portfolio management, with nimble credit management and bottom-up, research-driven security selection being key.

In terms of positioning, the portfolio has a close to neutral credit risk profile, with a short duration posture, while preserving high-quality liquid instruments to take advantage of future market dislocations.

From a sector perspective, the portfolio maintains an off-benchmark allocation to select taxable municipals, emphasizing healthcare and education issuers. The portfolio holds select below investment-grade corporates and bank loan issuers that in our view carry attractive credit spreads.

The portfolio maintains positioning in agency MBS issuers with a focus on supporting housing affordability for low-income borrowers. We continue to hold select single-asset single borrower CMBS backed by LEED certified buildings.

The portfolio maintains exposure to labelled use-of-proceeds government and agency bonds intended to fund green, social, and sustainability-related projects.

INDEPENDENT IMPACT VERIFICATION

An early mover in public-market impact investing, Wellington launched its first impact strategy in 2015 and joined the Global Impact Investing Network (GIIN) a year later. Wellington has continuously evolved to stay aligned with current best practices ever since. Wellington's commitment to ongoing improvement led the firm to independently verify that the impact investing processes of its Global Impact Equity and Global Impact Bond strategies (with combined assets under management of US$3.8 billion as at 31 December 2024) align with industry standards.

BlueMark, the leading provider of independent impact verification and intelligence for the sustainable and impact investing market, verified Wellington's practices. BlueMark assessed Wellington's practices against the GIIN's impact principles – a commonly recognized standard for impact investors, who aim to deliver market-rate financial returns alongside measurable social and environmental impact.

Wellington are thrilled to share its strong results, having earned an “advanced” or “high” rating in eight out of nine practice areas. Specifically, BlueMark:

- Highlighted a granular, bottom-up, integrated approach to impact diligence.
- Acknowledged strong collaboration among various teams across the firm, who work with impact portfolio managers to ensure that each underlying holding meets the respective fund's impact criteria.
- Assessed impact monitoring as “advanced,” citing Wellington's annual reporting of impact KPIs and an internal feedback loop that ensures insights from impact data analysis can help influence research and engagement priorities for Wellington's impact funds.

While proud of these achievements and BlueMark verification, Wellington also recognizes the importance of continued diligence and improvement. For example, Wellington plans to focus on the better sharing of lessons learned between the impact investing teams.

Looking forward to the next decade of impact investing, Wellington remains committed to advancing its impact measurement and management practice. Aligning with industry standards and best practices can not only help Wellington attract capital to public-market impact investing and deliver competitive outcomes for clients, but can help ensure that the firm is making a meaningful, quantifiable difference for society and the environment.
